

Mother Sanctuary

Oh, Mother Sanctuary, Mother God!

Didst Thou not covet creation's seed in the womb of Thy mysterious love?

And time and time again set life's little boat
a sail on this Earthly sea?

If I venture too far away into the waiting world,
shall I forget Thy soothing lap of comfort and those maternal arms compassionately enfolding me near Love's pulsating heart?

If I wander too far away from the cradling Garden,
a seed adrift on life's sensual waves,
shall I lose sight of Thy native soil
that gave birth and sustenance to my soul?

Lost in play,
I might forget Thy enduring presence.
Lost in time, I might forget Thy timeless prayer:

"Oh child of God,
I release you unto life
to give life meaning and purpose.

May your innocence be a beacon of hope,
your wisdom a searchlight of help
for those too far a sail from My eternal Harbor.

And, may your heart's siren song awaken those I yearn to embrace,
once again,
in the Sanctuary of My Love."

Miasha

Mother's Day 1996

Copyright © 1996 Christopher Forrest McDowell